READY AND WAITING.

Neither the Western Union Nor the Operators Show Signs of Weakening.

A Big Strike Imminent---What Is Said on Both Sides---The Baltimore & Ohio Makes Concessions.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The Western Union Telegraph company has given no reply to the demands made upon it by the executive committee of the Telegraphers' Brotherhood. The Baltimore & Ohio and the American Rapid Telegraph companies reported that they had the demands under consideration, and were awaiting the action of the Western Union company. Vice-President May, of the Rapid company, said that the Western Union had such a preponderance of telegraphic business that all the other companies were obliged to follow its lead. If it granted the demands of the brotherhood the other companies would be compelled to do likewise. Superintendent Phillips, of the United Press association, said that his operators would not strike because he had promised them the advance if the Western Union company conceded it. The operators of the Associated Press already receive higher pay than the other men are striking for, so that no trouble is anticipated there. Mr. Cyrus W. Field, a director of the Western Union, said that the company desired to pay its employes proper wages. He thought the demand for increased pay should come from employes themselves and not from an association of which the company had no knowledge. The demands will be considered at a meeting of the executive committee of the company. Mr. W. C. Hamstone, superintendent of the company, said that everything was in abeyance pending the meeting of the executive committee. This meeting takes place at noon in the Western Union build. There seems little reason to believe that the demands of the operators will be granted.

Superintendent G. S. Mott, of the Bankers' & Merchants' Telegraph company, said that no demands had been made upon that company by the the Brotherhood, and that no demands were expected. Their men got somewhat higher pay than the Western Union men, and professed to be satisfied. The lines of the company ran to Washington by way of Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Vice-President A. J. Baldwin, of the Southern Telegraph company, said about the same thing concerning the employes of his company. The company's lines run from Washington to Richmond, Norfolk, Pittsburg and adjacent cities.

Vice-President May, of the Rapid Telegraph company, said that he had forwarded the demands of the brotherhood to Boston, and was awaiting a reply. If there was a strike the business of his company would stop and the company take a vacation. He thought that the demands of the men were entirely too high, and that the Western Union would refuse them. If the demands were granted the increased salary list would lead to such a reduction of the working force that hundreds of operators would be thrown out of work. The small country offices and the poorly-paying city offices would be closed. "Equal pay for women," Mr. May said, "would do them more harm than good. A woman cannot be as good an operator as a man, and when it is necessary to pay equal wages a man would always be preferred, and this would drive the women out of the business."

At the Postal Telegraph company's office it was said that they anticipated no trouble from their men, and that the company was not transmitting any public business."

A joint meeting of the New York and Brooklyn assemblies of the brotherhood was held in the Grand Central hall, in Fulton street, Brooklyn. A communication was received from the executive committee saying that no answer had been returned by any of the companies to their demands. Several speeches were made and the general feeling seemed to be that there was no possible chance that the Western Union would grant the telegraphers' terms. Other companies it was thought, might accede to the demand. It was reported that the Baltimore & Ohio would return an answer making an advance of 10 per cent.

THE CHICAGO SITUATION.

CHICAGO, July 18.—The attitude of the Western Union officials and their employes was not changed, except that as the time for the strike was one day nearer both parties exhibited rather more nerve. The members of the brotherhood will undoubtedly quit work, and the only question is as to whether their number is sufficient to practically cripple the business of the company. The managers of the Chicago office are confident that they will be able to retain 100 operators and that new ones will come in as soon as the strike takes place. A member of the brotherhood asserted on the contrary that not twenty-five men, including chief operators, would remain at the wires. The officials claim that they will be able to take care of the business, while the operators say it will be impossible, since in some cities, as in San Francisco and Denver, all the operators will quit work.

The managers claim that much of the trouble arises from the fact that the operators do not understand the effect of the new rules upon salaries. They say that the shortening of hours gives so much more time for overwork, and actually increases the pay of the men, "An $80 a month man, by working four hours overtime a day, under the new rules will earn $134; under the old rules he made about $125 only. He now receives $3.03 for seven hours work, while before he only got 2.65 for eight hours. The ratio is the same for men earning any salary on the roll."

In reply to the charge that the operators were demanding too much one of them said yesterday.

"We think that a first-class man ought to be worth as much as a blacksmith, a bricklayer, or, in fact, any mechanic. In regard to the hours, the late President Orton testified before a congressional committee that telegraphers could not remain on duty more than six hours without injuring their health; we are willing to add two hours to his estimate in the daytime and one at night. Our business is different from that of almost any other, in that the work causes the highest possible tension of the nerves, and overwork produces serious and often fatal illness. Compare the average mortality among telegraphers with that of almost any other class of workers and you will see a wide difference. As regards the linemen, they are running a risk every day they live not only from the hazardous work of climbing poles, but from contact with the electric light wires. Good men are invaluable to the company and ought to receive good pay."

A LETTER FROM ECKERT.

A letter has been received from President Eckert, addressed to Mr. R. C. Clowry, the superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph company in this city, in which, after making calculations showing what the demands of the operators amounts to in dollars and cents, and expressing a doubt of the authority of the committee which presented the memorial to act for the whole body of the brotherhood, he says:

With thousands of able-bodied men out of employment all over the country, many of them applying to us for work, such a demand is remarkable. It is known that a large proportion of operators have been led up to join the league under compulsion, and others under the belief that the organization was co-operative for legitimate and benevolent purposes, many of whom have stated that they will repudiate any arbitrary action of the striking element.

WHAT THE MEN SAY.

"When the company says that the men are not prepared to stand a long strike they are wrong," remarked another operator. "The cost to the brotherhood as a body will not be ove $75,000 a week. I remember one week not long ago when the receipts in the Chicago office were $45,000. The week previous they were $43,000. Now, there are ten cities that do on an average pretty nearly as large a business as Chicago, and stopping at those places would entail a loss to the company of nearly $500,000 a week. But there are smaller offices, whose losses would aggregate a sum that it is impossible to guess at."

An old Western Union operator said: "The officials try to make it appear that all of the Western Union operators are receiving $75 and $80 a month, which is not true. Not half of the operators in the Chicago office receive that salary. Why didn't the Western Union do something of this kind before the agitation began? It has always been their policy to grind the men down just as much as they would stand without open rebellion. Three years ago the standard salary in the Chicago office was $50 a month. No matter what a man's ability was, if he came here he was compelled to work for that amount, and I know from personal knowledge that there were scores of the very best operators in the United States working in the Chicago office for that salary. This state of affairs was brought about by the consolidation of the Atlantic & Pacific telegraph company, which, at the time of the consolidation, had extended their lines to nearly every city between the Atlantic coast and the Missouri river, and of course employed a large number of operators. When the consolidation took place the Western Union took advantage of these operators."

THE BALTIMORE & OHIO.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The Baltimore & Ohio telegraph company is preparing to take advantage of the coming telegraph strike. "We have acceded to the 15 per cent. increase asked by the operators," said a prominent official of the corporation. "At a moment's notice we can double our service between New York, and should the strike continue very long we would extend our lines all over the country and duplicate the Western Union plant." It is believed that if the Baltimore & Ohio takes this course it will soon end the strike. The Western Union company would not hold out very long if it saw its business all going to a rival company. The business between Washington and New York is considered heavier than in any other part of the country. The Baltimore & Ohio men profess to be able to handle the work alone this route. Telegraph operators here are feeling very jubilant over the prospects for a speedy settlement of the trouble.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 18.—The bill of grievances presented to the Baltimore & Ohio was referred to George P. Frick, the general manager. He assured the committee that an answer would be given. He left for Deer Park to confer with Robert Jarrett, president pro tem. The two returned and had a conference with a committee of the brotherhood in Jarrett's private car at Camden station. It is authoratively declared that a compromise has been effected, whereby an advance of 10 per cent. will immediately be paid all Baltimore & Ohio telegraphers.

WALL STREET MATTERS.

Legitimate Business vs. Speculation ---Solid Investments Sought.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The Sun's financial article says: The fact is that, while the country is steadily growing more and more prosperous and legitimate business of every kind is reviving from its recent stagnation, there is not an encouraging point to be seen in favor of Wall street speculation. Everybody is tired of playing against cold decks, and nobody wants to buy stocks either at home or abroad. Europe seeks solid and permanent investments over which she can exercise some kind of control. She is sinking money fast in Panama, and may require some $40,000,000 more for the second Suez canal. This takes some $100,000,000 out of the speculative sphere for years and years to come. Yet we continue to work our printing presses as if the demand for investment paper had practically no end. We have listed this year on the New York stock exchange alone over $400,000,000 of new securities, and this in the face of the fact that almost every road on the continent is being paralleled and that not one in ten of them is able to earn its exorbitant fixed charges. Railroad managers assure us that there is no railroad war, yet all the systems are constantly in hot water trying to "adjust" rates. The trunk lines and the Southwestern association are going to have each another meeting this week. The Colorado pool have had their meeting, and were unable to arrange anything. The condition of affairs among trunk lines is particularly critical, and the reciprocal hostility of the New York Central, the Erie, and the Delaware & Lackawanna seems to be almost beyond all hope of a peaceful settlement. Every one of the great lines has a branch or two outside of the pool, and can by this means do all the cutting it chooses without actually breaking the original contract. The state of affairs with the trunk lines is thus very much the same as with the gin mills on Sunday. The front door is closed, but you can get all the rum you want through a side entrance.

The Baltimore Club on Duelling.

BALTIMORE, July 18.—Recently a dispatch from this city said that Mr. R. F. Beirne, of the Richmond State, had been refused an invitation to the Baltimore Club on an objection made by two of its governors, and that the two governors objected to Mr. Beirne because he had recently fought a duel with Mr. W. C. Elam.

That was true. It should also be known that at a special club meeting, held shortly after this resolution of the two governors was disapproved. A resolution expressing the deepest regret on the part of the club that such objection should have been made was adopted by four-fifths majority of the members present. The resolution was offered by one of the governors of the club, and among those who voted for it were the president and several of the governing board.

They Appealed to the Code.

CLARKSVILLE, Va., July 18.—Two men named Averett and Russell, living near here, quarreled. Averett soon left, and to companions made derogatory remarks about Russell. They were borne to him by a friend. Russell then sought Averett and demanded satisfaction. The code was appealed to. Both men were armed with revolvers, and at a signal fired simultaneously. Averett fell mortally wounded, with a bullet hole in his chest. Russell's shoulder was pierced with a ball.

All who are afflicted with salt rheum, itch, scald head, impetigo, and every other eruption of the skin, should use GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP.

MATTERS PRESIDENTIAL.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Gath says: "The friends of Mr. Pendleton in this part of the world look with considerable jealousy, it seems to me, on the advantages alternately gained by more prominent candidates for the presidency than himself. They do not like either Tilden or McDonald, and are restive under Hoadly's prominence. They make the argument that neither Hoadly nor Butler is old enough in the Democratic party to run for president. I was talking to one of these Pendletonians, and said to him that if Tilden and Hendricks were renominated and died on the party's hands, as both were likely to do, a senatorial clique could make the president of the United States, and it might be Pendleton. Apparently to get my mind from that line of thought, Mr. Pendleton's counsel said:

"Do you mean they will die between the election and the inauguration?"

"Well," said I, "I had not calculated as closely as that. They might be kept up on koumiss or some powerful stimulant, and not spoil till they were inaugurated, when the relapse might be immediate."

Said he: "The senate is Republican. If the presiding officer of the senate were to be president the Republicans would get it. But if they were to die before inauguration the election would probably go the house."

Since the letter in The New York Times, which is said to have emanated from the fertile brain of Howard Carroll, assisted, some think, by John Bigelow, or by Mrs. Bigelow, who is the better John of the two, appears to have trotted out Mr. Tilden as the Democratic candidate on no other issue than the fraud there has been a rapid expression of opinion, nearly all hostile in this quarter of the world, to Tilden.

A Democrat, formerly mayor of New York city, said to me: "Tilden might barely reach the presidency, but at what loss of repose and of days. His whole life will be brought in review again, and the management of the presidential campaign of 1876 will injure him more than Hayes. The dickering and chaffering at the St. Louis convention, the paying of the bills of delegates, the making of loose promises to pay money for this or that service will be found to extend through the whole campaign down to the attempt to manipulate South Carolina and Louisiana. Instead of the Democracy having present issues to discuss they will be carried back eight years to a dead topic. They may just as well go eight years further and take up the reconstruction measures, or eight years back of that and take up secession. The moment a party returns to things settled and done, it awakens excitements which have required sixteen years to allay. The simple fact has been, too, that we were wrong in all our national positions from 1864. We dare not re-enunciate the views we held except in 1870, when we put up Tilden as a distinctive reformer. He certainly employed very queer men as a reformer. Most of those emissaries, disappointed in not getting enough money from him, would become cheap instruments of revenge in the hands of the Republicans. Every one has some story to tell, and nearly every one of them feels that Tilden will repudiate him if he ever becomes president. Besides, Tilden's revival will throw the state of New York back into the hands of the Republicans. Kelly is too valuable a man to the Catholic church to let him be sacrificed, and the priests will drive up the politicians in the large cities of New York and take 100,000 votes away from Tilden. The Republicans meantime, about 30,000 of whom supported Tilden in the hard times of 1875, lost their interest in him as a reformer during the presidential campaign."

Said I to the gentleman: "Do you think that Tilden can organize his forces again?"

"No. I think I see signs that McDonald has cut away his support in New York. It does not look as if Tilden had a daily in New York city."

"Said I: "Don't you think that Hendricks is injuring McDonald by trying to resuscitate himself on the old ticket?"

"No. It is much better for McDonald that Hendricks has made this point early in the season. From what I hear Hendricks has no followers in Indiana. McDonald has the Democrats practically united there. McDonald is a harmonizing spirit.

We Should Help One another.

MR. NORMAN HUNT, of No. 159 Chestnut St., Springfield, Mass., writes, April 10, 1883, saying:

"Having the affliction caused by kindney and liver diseases, and after enduring the aches, pains, weakness, and depression incident thereto until body and soul were nearly distracted, I sought for relief and a cure from my trouble, and was told by a friend who had been cured by it himself, that the best and only sure cure was Hunt's Remedy, and upon his recommendation I commenced taking it, and the first few doses improved my condition in a very marked manner, and a continuance of its use has justified all that my friends claimed for it,—that it was a sure and permanent cure for all diseases of the kidneys and liver. Several of my friends in Springfield have used it with the most gratifying results, and I feel it my duty as well as a pleasure to me to recommend Hunt's Remedy in the highest possible terms."

Manufacturer's Testimony.

Mr. H. W. Payne, manufacturer of harness, saddlery, trunks, valises, etc., No. 477 Main street, Springfield, Mass., writes us under date of April 10, 1883:

GENTLEMEN—I have used Hunt's Remedy, the best medicine for diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder, and urinary organs, and have received great benefit to my health from its use, and I find that it will do just what is claimed for it; it will cure disease and restore health. I therefore pronounce it the best medicine that I have ever used."

Boston and Albany Railroad.

Albert Holt, Esq., paymaster Boston and Albany Railroad, at Springfield, Mass., writes April 23, 1883: "I have used Hunt's Remedy, and my experience with it has been such that I can cheerfully say that I am satisfied that it will do just what it promises to do, if used according to directions."

SPRING AND SUMMER USE.

We will not attempt to enumerate what we have, nor to describe our stock further than to say that it consists of the best obtainable, in every department. We keep everything that is usually found in a first-class Hardware and Stove Store, and a few things besides, and have taken especial pains this spring to have everything up to the standard. In articles of different makes, such as

Stoves, Ranges,

Household Implements and labor saving devices.

Axes, Tools,

Farm Machinery,

Etc., Etc.

We have either arranged to give the purchaser his choice of all the varieties, or we have selected after careful comparison, what we consider to be the best. Everything in our stock has been chosen with particular reference to the want of this community and the surrounding country, and we want every purchaser to feel assured that in buying of us he is getting the greatest obtainable value for his money. Speaking of money brings us to the question of prices, and right here we must be pardoned if we do a little bragging. We do not claim to be smarter than the generality of men in a horse trade or sharper in a dog dicker, but when it comes to buying a stock of Hardware stores we know just what we are about. We have been enabled by our experience and certain advantages we possess—not the least of which is buying for SPOT CASH, to lay in our new spring stock of seasonable goods at figures which would astonish our competators if they knew them, and will allow us to offer our patrons a benefit in the way of ROCK BOTTOM PRICES for TIP TOP GOODS, that we are sure will be appreciated.

We believe that there is a large class of patent medicines whose ingredients are skillfully and conscientiously selected and compounded, and that they have been very useful in the domestic treatment of disease. We must come to this conclusion in precisely the same way that we come to the conclusion that a man is a skillful physician—by what they accomplish, and by the testimony of those who have used them. The reputation of a patent medicine is sustained by exactly the same evidence that supports a skillful physician's reputation. * * * Many of those medicines came out of the regular practice, and were prepared and originally prescribed by the best physicians. * * * Very few of them, we believe are humbugs and frauds in the conscientiousness or the intent of their makers. * * * The people, who are necessarily the judges, both of doctors and of medicines say that these medicines are not all frauds, and if human testimony is good for anything, that fact is established. —Scribner's Monthly.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 18.

MOBBED BY MEXICANS.

Outrage to an American Consul---A Chance for Diplomacy or War.

GALVESTON, Texas, July 18.—The News Laredo special says: Doctor Campbell, American consul at Monterey, arrived in Laredo on the 15th inst., leaving the consulate in charge of the Rev. Shaw. Since then dispatches were received addressed officially to Consul Campbell notifying him that the American consul's office was entered by a mob of Mexicans, and the Rev. Shaw, acting United States consul at Monterey, was attacked and beaten nearly to death. The furniture and papers belonging to the consulate were destroyed. The information creates a profound sensation at Laredo. Citizens deplore a rupture between the two governments, but consider the insult so bold the United States must resent it. Employes of the Mexican National railroad who have arrived say Shaw, after being beaten senseless, revived sufficiently to crawl to one of the public hotels and give an account of the outrage, but in a few moments became again insensible, and at last accounts was still unconscious.

SECRETARY LINCOLN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 18.—Secretary Lincoln, with his wife and three children and a nurse, have arrived direct from Washington, and occupied a handsome suite of apartments at the Brighton. On his return from a stroll with his children along the beach the secretary stated to a press correspondent that he had brought his family here to remain until his return from the Yellowstone trip, on which he will accompany the president. His wife's health is not as good as it might be, but his own is excellent.

Mr. Lincoln stated that he had seen the sensational dispatch from Washington in regard to the alleged confessions made by Gen. Crook in a conference held on last Saturday week in Washington. An official claiming to be intimately acquainted with the details of the conference at Washington declared that Gen. Crook practically admitted that he had been captured by the Indians, and that he was only allowed to depart by the victorious Apaches on condition that the latter would be allowed to remain on the San Carlos reservation. Secretary Lincoln manifested great indignation when speaking of this statement and denounced the report as utterly without foundation. He said he could not understand how it could have originated. He said the secretary of the interior, the commissioner of Indian affairs, General Crook and himself were the only persons present at the conference, and therefore there could have been no one to overhear and report their conversation as alleged. He further said that General Crook's campaign against the Apache Indians had been in the highest degree satisfactory to the war department, and that the general had made a straightforward statement of his maneuvers in the Sierra Madres, his capture of the Indian village and the subsequent negotiations.

PATTI'S PALACE CAR.

Description of the Coach the Diva Will Travel in.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The car now being constructed at the Gilbert Carshops, in Troy, for the use of the Mapleson Opera company will be for the exclusive use of Mme. Patti and Nicolini. The cars are being built for the Mann Boudoir Car company. Count Zacharoff, the acting secretary, said that the company had the contract to provide the cars to take Patti and the remainder of Col. Mapleson's company to sixty cities in the United States. Replying to the report that Patti would not be Mapleson's prima donna, the diva herself has sent a dispatch to the Count saying: "I am certainly going with Col. Mapleson. Contradict the report to the contrary." Count Zacharoff said that the cars, which were devised by Col. Mann, an American inventor, were running on sixty lines in Europe. Ten other cars were to be constructed besides those for Colonel Mapleson, and the company expected to have them in service on four of the important lines by October 1. The car for Patti's accommodation will be called the Adelina Patti. It will have a dome roof, and the exterior will be in dark blue and gold. Along one side will run a wide corridor. In the centre will be a spacious drawing-room fitted with divans, a table, sideboard and other appointments. Adjoining, on one side, will be Patti's room, and on the other Nicolini's, and at either extreme will be a room for Patti's maid and Nicolini's valet. There will be linen closets, lavatories and other rooms besides. The car will be ventilated by a process similar to that in use at the Madison Square theatre, by which the temperature in the heated term can be reduced 10°, and the heating apparatus designed for the purpose is to be employed in cold weather. The car will be upholstered in satin, even to the walls themselves, according to designs prepared by the upholsterer to the Prince of Wales in London. The car is to cost $55,000.

GOT GOOD GRIT.

A City Mayor Who is Not Afraid---Threatened With Impeachment He Braves Matrimony Also.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 18.—Late Friday night the city council adopted a resolution instituting impeachment proceedings against Mayor Ewing for malfeasance in failing to send in his appointments. Bright and early Saturday morning the mayor stepped on board a train and departed for Indiana, where he is to be married to a Vincennes lady. It was pretty well understood that the members who voted for the resolution did it principally to worry the Mayor by spoiling his honeymoon. They have not the two-thirds majority necessary to make the impeachment proceedings effective, and hence they could hardly have had any other object in view. It seems, however, that he has eluded them. The ordinance requires that they give him five days' notice before they can bring him to trial. Up to the present time they have not succeeded in getting service upon him, and as the president of the council is the mayor's friend, it is not likely they will. The chances are, therefore, that he will be enabled to take the bridal tour to the east which he has arranged. The fight between the mayor and the majority of the council is a very bitter one, and grows out of the fact that a coalition of four Republicans and three Democrats have determined to defeat the mayor's nomination of Chauncey I. Filley as assessor of water rates.

LATER—The Post-Dispatch special from Vincennes, Ind., says: "At 10 o'clock a. m. the Hon. William L. Ewing, mayor of St. Louis was married to Miss Mollie Fleming, of this city. The wedding was a quiet affair, and was celebrated at the residence of the bride's parents, the Rev. Aaron Turner, Methodist minister, officiating. Only the intimate friends of both parties were present at the ceremony.

After the marriage, banquet was served, and the couple took the train for St. Louis.

HAVE A LIGHT.

Effect of Recent Legislation on Matches---Short-Count Boxes.

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—Congress has not, as is generally supposed, abolished all the tax on matches. The one-cent a box on sulphur matches was removed, but only about 70 per cent. of the tax on parlor matches was taken off. An agent of a match company of this city said that the consumers were already reaping the advantage of the tax reduction. The manufacturers now sell the sulphur matches to jobbers at $1 a gross, which is $1.30 less than the manufacturers' price prior to July 1, when the new tariff went into effect, and the retail price is now three boxes for 5 cents—a gain to the buyer of 33⅓ per cent.

Parlor matches, which before the new tariff were sold to jobbers at $15 a gross, in boxes containing 500 matches, now sell for $10; and the same matches in boxes containing 300, which were sold to jobbers at $9 per gross, are now sold at $4. The fall in the retail price has been about in the same proportion. One effect of the new law has been to deprive the great match monopoly company of the opportunity to make the 10 per cent. of the entire tax through the operation of the law which allowed it that amount for making the stamps.

Under the old law all manufacturers were obliged to put 100 sulphur matches in each box, but now the number of matcher to the box is not regulated. This has already resulted in the putting up by at least one concern of what are known as "short-counted" matches; that is, boxes which do not contain the usual 100. These "short counts" are likely to play an important part in the match business in the future. There is no legal fraud in putting short-count boxes of matches on the market, because they are sold by the box. Of course, a company which puts less than a hundred matches in a box can afford to undersell the manufacturer who gives a full-count box, and here is where the trouble is likely to occur.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The Senatorship---Mr. Briggs Makes an Explanation.

CONCORD, N. H., July 17.—In the ballot for United States senator, Chandler received 65 votes, Briggs 48. After the ballot Mr. Briggs rose to a personal explanation. He said the article which appeared in the National Republican at Washington, Saturday, contained an order issued by direction of Major General Sumner, December 7, 1862, dismissing Briggs, then Assistant Quartermaster of the 118th New Hampshire volunteers, from the service, for resigning in the face of the enemy, and made an explanation. After the battle of Fredericksburg he applied to Gen. Sumner in person for leave of absence to attend to important business at home, but the request was denied. Gen. Sumner said he would accept his resignation, whereupon it was presented. He came home, looked after his business, returned to the front, and assumed his former position which had been held open for him. He continued with the regiment until obliged to resign on account of sickness, and the order (which he read) issued August 1, 1863, granted him an honorable discharge from the service. It was the first personal explanation he ever had been called upon to make during his long term of public service, which included six years in congress. At the conclusion of his remarks, a resolution, accepting the explanation given as perfectly satisfactory and exonerating Mr. Briggs from any suspicion of cowardice, was unanimously adopted.

Election Riot in Ireland.

DUBLIN, July 18.—William Redmond (Parnellite) was elected to parliament for Wexford, defeating O'Connor Don (Liberal). The pool stood 307 to 120. Intense hostility was displayed toward the Gladstonian candidate. His committee-rooms were smashed and he was hissed as he drove through the streets. Sexton fruitlessly implored nationalists and leaguers to preserve order. Many policemen arrived.

After the result of the polling had been declared, O'Connor Don drove along Main street under escort. He was pelted by the mob, and the police charged the crowd with bayonets. Several persons were wounded and one was pierced through the lungs. Thirty policemen were injured, twelve seriously. Some of the officers were isolated, knocked down, and trampled upon. Healy and Sexton finally undertook to restore order, and the police were withdrawn. In a speech Healy said the police behaved savagely.

Sun Spots and Storms.

ROCHESTER, July 18.—The Democrat and Chronicle says: "To the five groups of sun spots which have exhibited intense action during the past week two more have just been added by the sun's rotation. The sun storm which is just coming into view covers a great area, showing very rapid changes. Violent thunder storms and tornadoes may be expected in the northern states and Canada."

Gambling Territory for Sale.

MARSEILLES, France, July 18.—The prince of Monaco is treating with France for the sale of his principality. The sum of 10,000,000 francs is asked, and the recognition of the traditional gambling privileges for twenty-seven years is demanded.

Governor Hamilton has refused to pardon Angell, the Pullman Car company embezzler. Executive clemency was withheld chiefly for the reason that Angell appropriated the company's money without having been subjected to the temptations which usually lead to such actions. The request for pardon was signed by a large number of prominent Chicagoans.

MISS SANDFORD'S TASTE.

She Runs Away With an Illiterate and Homely Colored Man.

CLEVELAND, July 18.—Detectives from Wheeling, W. Va., have been in this city hunting for a runaway girl named Cora Sandford. She is a daughter of John Sandford, a wealthy farmer living in the suburbs of Wheeling. She recently was graduated from a seminary with high honors. For several years past a colored man named Francis Smith, age 35, has been employed at the Sandford homestead as coachman. He is homely and illiterate, and revolting in appearance, but is a glib talker. Miss Sandford fell in love with him and met him clandestinely at various times. Her parents were in total ignorance of her actions. The couple were in the habit of taking long drives together after nightfall. A few days ago the girl was missed, and it also happened that the colored coachman was missing also. The case was given to the police by the agonized parents and detectives sent in search of the runaway pair. Traces of them were found in this city, but as yet they have not been found. The girl left a note to her parents in which she stated that she had left home never to return.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO, July 17.—Rodiger & Co's. market letter of this evening says: Wheat opens this morning at about yesterday's closing prices, advanced half a cent, fell back to opening figures, in final dealings selling at $1.04¾. Outside and especially New York orders to buy were quite numerous to-day, while the same parties who have been steady buyers since the panic were, apparently, at least, sellers. The market in late dealings on the curb was strong. The advance already reached is equal to 6c since the lowest prices were made during the panic. Corn has been steady without any special feature. Rather more liberal receipts in the face of a slight falling off in the demand for shipment has checked a further advance. Provisions have been very strong on outside orders. Up to this writing the Western Union Telegraph company has made no concession to its operators, and from present appearances it would seem not improbable that a strike may be ordered for to-morrow morning. Should telegraphic communication be interrupted for any length of time it may have a depressing effect on prices.

WHO SHOULD USE BENTON'S HAIR GROWER!

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF, all who want MUSTACHES or WHISKERS. 80 per cent. of those using BENTON'S HAIR GROWER, have grown Hair. If falls sometimes when the follicles have been killed by poisonous preparations, or skin diseases, but those cases are so few that everyone should try it. If it fails to stop the hair falling it is from a parasite or Alopecia; in such cases send us a few hairs and we will send a prescription free.

Double and Triple STRENGTH.

When the Skin is very tough and hard, and the follicle apparently effectually closed, the single strength will sometimes fail to reach the papilla; in such case the double or the triple strength should be used in connection with the single strength, using them on alternate days.

NO HAIR! NO PAY!

We will send, charges prepaid, to any address, on receipt of five dollars, four bottles of single strength and one bottle of double strength. If used according to directions, and the person is not over fifty years of age, we bind ourselves to refund the money if no new growth of hair is produced when the five bottles have been used on one person.

No contracts taken unless actual baldness exists.

Ask your Druggist or Barber to get it for you, or the money can be sent to us direct and the Grower will be sent prepaid. ☞Price, $1.00 per Bottle. Double Strength, $2.00; Triple Strength, $3.00.

"Hard to Bear."

General Jackson adhered, even during his Presidency, to certain peculiarities of pronunciation which he had acquired in his youth. He would, for instance, pronounce the word development, as though it were written devil-ope-ment, with a strong accent upon "ope." Conversing one day with a foreign Minister who had been educated in England, the General said "de.il-ope-ment." In the course of a sentence or two, the Minister pronounced the word correctly.

"I repeat it, Mr. ——," continued the President, "this measure is essential to the devil-ope-ment of our resources."

"Really, sir," said the Minister, "I consider the de-vel-opment of your country——," with a marked accent upon the vel.

"Excuse me, Mr. ——," exclaimed the President, "you may call it de-vel-opment, if you please; but I say devil-ope-ment, and will say devil-ope-ment as long as I revere the memory of good old Dr. Waddell!" referring to a famous preacher.

Another man, aged and good, but ignorant and suspicious, was once greatly disturbed by a word with which he was not familiar. He imagined his neighbor Dillon had a grudge against him, and brooded over the surmise until he believed Dillon to be his bitter enemy. His family tried in vain to convince him to the contrary.

One evening, in a church-meeting, the old man arose and stated his grievance. Mr. Dillon could hardly believe his ears. He sprang to his feet as the old man sat down.

"Why, my dear brother!" exclaimed he "you are wholly mistaken. I your enemy! Why, such a thought never entered my mind. Indeed! indeed! you are under an hallucination;" and the surprised brother sat down, thinking he had convinced the old man that he was mistaken. The meeting went on, but just before it closed the old gentleman again arose.

"Brothren," said he, in tremulous tones, "I've felt bad over this, and it's been pretty hard to bear; but when Frank Dillon gets up in meetin'. afore you all an' declares that I'm 'full of hellish notions,' an' not a voice, not one, is raised against it, it's—it's too much. I've been a member here fifty years a'most. but," and he straightened his bowed form, "I shall never come in here again while such things are said an' accepted."

And it was only after much effort that the poor old man was made to understand the meaning of the word hallucination.—Youth's Companion.

The Prevision of Thunder Storms.

Considering the immense destructiveness of thunder storms at this season, a recent communication to Nature by Mr. Ley, of London, on the subject of "sheet lightning" is practical and timely. The phenomenon of "sheet lightning" has been long discussed by scientists, but its nature has only within a few years been determined, and a too popular impression exists that it is a harmless exhibition of electrical force in the clouds. It is probably owing to this misconception that so many lives are lost by lightning stroke, people generally not taking the noiseless electrical display as the forewarning of a thunder storm. Mr. Ley very properly rejects the notion that sheet lightning is merely "a distinct form of lightning unaccompanied by sound," and shows that, on the contrary, as a rule, it is "the illumination produced by a distant thunder storm." "It is certain," he says, "that the illuminations of an ordinary thunder storm at midnight, when there is no moonlight, have an average radius of more than forty miles."

This is a moderate estimate, as other experienced observers give much greater distances at which lightning is visible. Mr. Symons states his belief that it is sometimes visible "as far as one hundred and fifty miles," which may possibly be the case in the tropics, where electrical storms in which the lightning flashes extend over several miles are formed at great altitudes. The distance at which thunder is audible, however, does not often reach fifteen miles, though an extreme case has been reliably reported in which over two minutes elapsed between the flash and the thunder, indicating that the former took place about twenty-five miles from the observer. It is obvious that during the raging of an electrical storm its vivid flashes, especially at night in the absence of moonlight, may be seen at many points where the thunder is inaudible, and also at many points over which the storm itself will not sweep. But to all points lying in the storm's path and at which the silent lightning is visible the flashes will serve as warning signals of the tempest's approach. With a little reflection when such signals are displayed to an observer it is easy to foresee whether the distant storm will pass dangerously near him. While our summer thunder storms may not be translated from point to point in the same way a regular cyclone is, they progress so slowly that there is usually time enough between their first seen flashes and their near approach to discover their line of advance and to guard against the danger. Of course this interval is greater if the storm comes up at night, when its lightning can be seen at greater distances—probably in most cases one or two hours before it arrives. As all great thunder storms occur only where sudden and sharp alterations of temperature are impending, and the daily weather reports show generally over what sections such thermal changes will take place, every man may be weather prophet enough to put the above principles to good use in protecting his family and his property against the disastrous effects of these storms.—N. Y. Herald.

A Story of James Gordon Bennett.

One New-Year's Day Bennett arrived at the Union Club toward night, having made many calls. He sat down in a chair, and, observing that some members of the club were presenting Peter, the venerable porter of the club, with five-dollar bills as New-Year's presents, he called him over, and fishing down into one of his pockets brought up a bill.

"Peter, my friend," he said, without looking at the bill, "take that."

"Thank you, sir," said Peter, his eyes glistening at the sight of a twenty dollar bill.

Bennett gazed at him for a second, said sleepily: "Wait, Peter," and diving down into another pocket brought up another bill.

"Take that, Peter."

This performance went on for fully five minutes. Every time that the astonished Peter attempted to retire he was called back, and the presentation of every kind of bill from one to fifty dollars went on to the amusement of the spectators. When no more bills came forth Bennett stopped and went away. Peter asked some of the members what he had best do with his hatful of money. He was advised to ask Mr. Bennett the next time he came whether he had not given him by mistake more than he intended. So the next day when Bennett appeared Peter said to him:

"Mr. Bennett, I think you gave me more of a New-Year's present than you intended last night."

Bennett looked at him for a few seconds, not having the glimmer of an idea of how much he had given, or whether he had given anything at all.

"How much did I give you, Peter?"

"Eight hundred dollars, sir."

The position was a delicate one, but not so much so to a man with an income of a million a year as to an ordinary mortal. "That was the amount I intended for you, Peter," said Bennett without a sign of annoyance.—New York Cor. Charleston News and Courier.

A Georgia Man's Way.

It was a bleak, raw, April day as we ran down into South Carolina. There was no fire in the coach, nor would there have been need of any if the windows could have been kept down. A chap from Quitman, Ga., who had lately peeled off his flannels and who felt as cold as a sheared lamb, succeeded after awhile in getting all the windows down but one. That was on the right-hand side, third seat from the front, and the seat was occupied by a fat man with a red face.

"Sir, won't you please lower that window?" asked the Georgian.

"What for?"

"To keep out the cold."

"I'm none to cold."

"But it lets dust in."

"I have no objections to dust."

Nothing further was said, but the Georgian presently opened the stove door and took out about a pint of ashes and wrapped them up, and at the next station he dropped off the car and took the one ahead. Ten minutes after starting up the train entered a deep cut and the fat man was observed to bob off his seat and dig his eyes and jump up and down as if he had hornets in his bootlegs. Indeed, he swore—swore black and blue and green. He swore he'd sue the company, and he swore he'd kill the engineer, and it was a good two hours before he could open one eye wide enough to swear that in his first moment of surprise his gold spectacles had fallen off and he had trampled them under foot.

"I wonder what got into his eyes?" I asked of the Georgian.

"Lime, I reckon, as we were running through a limestone cut just then," he calmly replied, as he looked up from his paper.—Detroit Free Press.

OF THE

Medical and Surgical

INSTITUTE

Late Lecturer and Professor in one of the leading medical colleges in the United States, editor of the New York Medical and Surgical Journal, consulting physician and operative surgeon in the New York Hospital for Chronic Diseases, Physician in Chief of the Medical and Surgical Institute of Cedar Rapids.

ON ACCOUNT OF HIS

Immense Practice

IN

Janesville, Wis.,

WILL MAKE HIS NEXT VI

MYERS HOUSE,

Wednesday, August 29th.

And Remain Two Days

When he can be consulted on

Deformities, Spinal and Chronic Diseases.

Dr. Fishblatt

Has discovered the greatest cure in the world for weakness of the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, paleness of sight or giddiness, diseases of the throat, nose or skin, affections of the liver, lungs stomach, or bowels.—those terrible disorders arising from solitary practice more fatal to their victims than the songs of the sirens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible.

YOUNG MEN.

Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, who might, if otherwise, outrance listening senates with the thunder of their eloquence, or wake to ecstacy the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

Marriage.

Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness (loss of procreative power, impotency,) nervous debility or any other disqualifications speedily relieved. He who places himself under the care of Dr. Fishblatt may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

Organic

WEAKNESS.

Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This affliction—which renders life a burden and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victim of improper indulgence. Young persons are apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands this subject will deny that procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both mind and body arise. The system becomes deranged, the physical and mental functions weakened, loss of procreative power, nervous irritability, dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, constitutional debility, wasting of the frame, cough, consumption and death

A Cure Warranted.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders who keep them trifling month after month, taking poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately.

Dr. Fishblatt

Graduated at one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at certain sounds, with frequent blushing attended somewhat with derangement of the mind, were cured immediately.

Particular Notice.

☞Dr. F. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruins both mind and body, unfitting them for business, study, society, marriage. These are some of the sad, melancholy effects produced by the early habits of youth, namely: Weakness in the back and limbs, pain in the head, dimness of sight, loss of musical power, palpitation of the heart, dyspepsia, nervous irritability, derangement of the digestive functions, debility consumption, etc.

Chronic Diseases.

A Special Study for Years.

—:o:—

Dr. F. B. BREWER,

Has made Chronic Diseases of the

A special treatment for years. He is not a boastful, ignorant pretender, but an educated physician, seeking to do good, by devoting his talent and energies to the treatment of a class of maladies that have been with him a long and patient study. To be able to treat successfully chronic diseases it requires that a physician should be a sound, thorough scholar in the art of science and medicine generally. He should give his entire time to their study, be thorough in his investigations and have a long and varied experience. Dr. Brewer claims to work no wonders or to do any more than any well educated physician can do, who devotes his whole time to the study and treatment of chronic diseases exclusively, and has had his many years' of experience. For years Dr. Brewer has visited the the places he now visits, and has obtained his reputation by being honest in his dealings, candid in opinions and reasonable in his charges. Those who are afflicted are invited to call, investigate and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing to do so. Address all letters to

THE WISCONSIN PRESS.

Its Growth, Influence and How It Should be Conducted.

Address Delivered at the Annual Meeting of the Wisconsin Editorial Association, at Lake Geneva, July 17th, 1883, by Nicholas Smith, of Janesville.

[Special Dispatch to The Sentinel.]

LAKE GENEVA, July 17.—Pursuant to the call issued some time ago, the members of the Wisconsin Editors and Publishers' association began to assemble at this charming spot to-day, and by the time the shades of evening had fallen a large portion of the brain power of the state was enjoying the cool breezes from the lake and getting ready for the evening meeting. Mr. Evans, a Methodist minister, delivered the welcoming address, which was responded to by Col. Calkins, of Milwaukee. A recess of half an hour was then taken, which was agreeably passed by the members in handshaking and the giving and receiving of congratulations. A gavel then pounded its warning note, and speedily the gentlemen and ladies composing the gathering resented themselves and listened to the following address, deliqered by Col. Nicholas Smith, of the Janesville Gazette:

Mr. President, Ladies, and Gentlemen of the Press:

It should be a source of pride to the editorial profession of Wisconsin, that the first state association of editors and publishers formed in this country was organized in this state. This was nearly 30 years ago, and since that time the press of other states has formed like organizations, and at the present time there is hardly a state in the union but that has an editorial association with its annual meetings and festivities and refreshing excursions. The progress of journalism in Wisconsin is a subject that not only interests the members of the press, but it can hardly fail to be of value to the great mass of well-informed people who are constant readers of the weekly and the daily newspapers. At the beginning of the war there were not more than 100 periodicals of all kinds published in Wisconsin. The number did not materially increase during that memorable struggle for the union and freedom, and up to 1867, the number had reached only 116; but when the census was taken in 1880, there were 340. Though the chances and changes that are constantly taking place in business affairs, some papers were suspended and others established, so that last year there were 337 periodicals in Wisconsin, 320 of which were weeklies and 25 were dailies, with an aggregate circulation of about 460,000.

The new life which was infused in almost every industry in this country soon after the war, did not pass by journalism in Wisconsin. Here and there in every part of the state, towns that never had a newspaper soon had one of their own, and many that formerly had but one, became enterprising enough to support two, and not a few took it upon themselves to maintain three. Then, the northern part of the state which had been well-nigh forgotten and whose resources in regard to lumber and agriculture were not justly appreciated, began to feel the touch of power in the local press. The practical printers and the enterprising editors who have been leaders in pioneer journalism in this state have much to feel proud to-day. They were courageous enough to establish newspapers in new counties and in small villages, and are now exerting a flattering influence in developing the resources of the northern counties, whose possibilities were far greater than the people of the central or the southern portion of the state ever thought of. Henry Watterson, you know, has told us that a practical newspaper man can publish an interesting and successful paper in a mud-puddle. Of course, this will not be taken in its literal sense, but comparing small towns with great ones, his statement is true; and in looking over the field in Wisconsin there are many who have come up to the standard of successful journalist raised by Mr. Watterson.

It is somewhat interesting to examine the record and learn how many soldiers went from the field to journalism in this state after the close of the war. They fought well when good fighting was required, and to-day those who have not been taken away by death, are the most successful editors and publishers in Wisconsin.

S. W. Pierce, of the Adams County Press, was a lieutenant in the 28th Wisconsin. Charles Bone, of the Rice Lake Chronotype, served in the 14th. Dr. J. L. Kane, of the Milwaukee Sentinel, enlisted in the 7th Illinois infantry, before he was 15, and served four years. Colonel Charles D. Robinson, of the Green Bay Advocate, was on General Rufus King's staff. J. W. DeGroff, of the Alma Journal, was in the 25th. W. S. Monroe, of the Cadott Record, was a captain in the 16th. General George C. Giuty, of the Chippewa Herald, was major of the 30th, and colonel of the 47th. H. J. and E. L. Hoffman, of the Republican-Press, Neillsville, were in the 10th. E. O. Lacey, of the Prairie du Chien Union, was in the 8th. General Edwin E. Bryant, who was adjutant of the 3rd and lieutenant colonel of the 50th, has left the law, and is now ably editing the Madison Democrat. C. A. Pettibone, of the Juneau Telephone, was captain in the 2d cavalry. Rock J. Flint, of the Dunn County News, was in the 23d. J. H. Waggoner, of the Eau Claire Free Press, was lieutenant in the in the 2d cavalry, and his partner, J. H. Keyes, served in the 29th infantry. M. C. Short, of the Brandon Times, was a captain in the 31st H. D. Farquharson, of the Lancaster Herald, was a captain in the 25th. Charles A. Booth, of the Monroe Sentinel, was a lieutenant in the 22d. W. H. Bennett, of the Mineral Point Tribune, was in the 11th. Frank Cooper, of the Black River Falls Banner, fought in the 37th. Thomas Lindley, of the Elroy Tribune, was in the 6th infantry. W. D. Hoard, of the Jefferson County Union, served in the 4th infantry. Isaac T. Carr, of the Jefferson County Banner, was a private in the 22d, a lieutenant in the 16th and a captain in the 46th. General James Bintliff, formerly of the Janesville Gazette, and of the Darlington Republican, was a captain in the 22d, and colonel of the 38th, and was brevetted a brigadier for conspicuous gallantry at Petersburg. Henry Sanford, of the Manitowoc Tribune, was in the 2d infantry. P. H. Swift, of the Oconto Reporter, was a captain in the 33d. R. H. Johnson, of the Central Wisconsin, Waunsan, was in an Indiana regiment. L. B. Noyes, of the Marinette Eagle, was a lieutenant in the 36th. S. D. Forbes, of the Westfield Union, was a lieutenant in the 32d infantry, and a lieutenant in the 1st light artillery. J. A. Wells, of the Tomah Journal, served in the 23d. Sam Ryan, of the Appleton Crescent, was in the 14th infantry and the 3d cavalry. Edward McGlochlin, of the Stevens Point Journal, in the 1st infantry. W. M. Fogo, Richland County Republican, was in the 2d cavalry and the 42d infantry. A. C. Van Meter, of the New Richmond Republican, was in the 30th. J. H. Powers, Baraboo Republic, served in the 4th infantry. C. A. Leith, of the Republican-Leader, at Arcadia, was in the 1st battery of horse artillery. D. W. C. Wilson, of the Leader, Viroqua, was a lieutenant in the 18th. E. D. Coe, of the Whitewater Register, served in the 1st cavalry. C. L. Powers, of the West Bend Times, was in the 37th. General Thomas S. Allen, of the Oshkosh Northwestern, was a major in the 2d infantry and colonel of the 5th, and was brevetted a brigadier for galantry during the war. J. N. Stone, Neenah Times, was a captain in the 19th. Colonel E. A. Calkins, of the Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph, was lieutenant colonel of the 3d cavalry, and Colonel J. A. Watrous, of the same paper, was adjutant of the 6th infantry, and was worthily brevetted captain for meritorious services at the battles of White Oak and Five Forks. Major S. S. Rockwood was a lieutenant in the 13th infantry and afterwards placed on the staffs of Generals Ord and Custer. Within the past year he resigned the chair of mathematics in the Whitewater Normal school, and is now the honored editor of the Janesville Daily Recorder.

My friends, the great question now comes to the mind, what is the tendency of the press? Is it upward or downward? Is it stronger and better, or is it growing weaker and worse? We have done a great deal of talking about other people and their business, now let us talk about ourselves, and talk honestly, and see where we stand. What we should enquire into at this annual meeting of the press association, is whether there are any mistakes in our editorial life that ought to be corrected; whether the spirit of the press is just; whether its tone can be made more wholesome; whether its influence can be made further-reaching; and whether the press can get nearer to the people and the people nearer to the press. We may as well start out with the proposition, and be honest about it, that the press is not without its sins. But with all its faults there is a power for good in it, and the number of fair-minded and conscientious men connected with it, far more than counterbalance the reckless and splashy writers who carry no conscience about them, and who have no regard for public morals or public sentiment.

What we need in editorial life, and what we should have as a constant companion, is that sober sense and rare judgment that command the close attention and the deep respect of our intelligent public. There is nothing that shines brighter in a newspaper than plain, manly words even when politics is waxing hot, or when the people are troubled and divided on local questions. It is then that sober sense and sound judgment in the editorial room become more potent, and that the people feel they have a friend and a guide in the newspaper. What we need, my friends, is journalism that will build up and not tear down; that will exalt character and not debase it; that will teach men to confide in each other; and that will "give truth the crown and compel falsehood to go in rags."

I do not propose to make a special plea for the press, or to throw a mantle over its foibles, or to apologize for its mistakes and eccentricities. It has done some harm, but it has done and it is still doing more good. It is working reform both in politics and in social life, and is becoming more independent, and therefore fairer in dealing with questions that deeply concern the people. That this is the case with the Wisconsin press, no one who is a careful observer and a thoughtful reader, can deny. There are more amenities and more news than formerly, less personal invective, and greater influence in stimulating popular thought. In these regards, the press of the state has made wonderful advancement during the past few years. The weeklies are larger and better, and the dailies show more enterprise and ability and justness in discussing the important questions that are continually arising state and national affairs. The country newspapers are now nearer the hearts of the people because they show more tact and enterprise in gathering news which is local, and therefore especially interesting to every subscriber.

Horace Greeley had the right idea of country journalism when he said that the name of every subscriber should appear in his county paper at least once a year. If his name was thus given, not in a fulsome, but in a kindly way, it would do much toward binding his good will to his home paper. There are very many whose lot is hard and whose labor is constant and rugged, and whom the busy world takes no note of, and yet they do what little they can to support their county papers, and a kindly mention of them once in a while when opportunity affords, will do much to brighten their lives and make them feel that they are not wholly forgotten, and that life is not a total blank.

Mr. Joseph Cook has seen fit recently to sit in judgment on the motives of the press, and while he assailed the metropolitan journals, he did not forget to assail the spirit, and to disparage the ability, of the country newspapers. He saw much evil in the papers that was imaginary and imputed to them sins with which they should not be charged. Mr. Cook's harsh judgment shows that he does not rightly appreciate the countless embarrassments with which editorial duties are constantly surrounded. To successfully edit a newspaper, whether it be in the country or in the city, to start it on a small beginning, and to make it grow into a respectable daily or a thrifty weekly, to deal so frequently, as the editor must, with the varied interests and the public reputations of men, and not to deal with them otherwise than justly, is a task that is difficult to perform. It is labor and responsibility few men are able to bear; and it requires ceaseless industry and a peculiar combination of talents which not one collegiate in a thousand possesses.

But the trouble with all men like Mr. Cook, who notice only the bad things in the newspapers and do not observe the good things, is that they never come near enough to the heart of the press to be in sympathy with the men who control its affairs. Men who inherit easy circumstances, with affluence about their homes, with scholars for their companions, and with a Harvard for their alma mater, know nothing of the innumerable difficulties and almost disheartening perplexities, that attend the publication of even a country paper. There are men connected with the Wisconsin press, and you cannot number them on your fingers either, who have fought a greater battle in the struggle of life than the men who stand afar off and complain about the weakness and bemoan the shortcomings of the newspapers. These men were born in poverty, chained by unfortunate circumstances to obscurity, and called early from school, if to school they went at all, to plodding years of toil; but they have come out of that struggle with power to command the attention of the public and to create a sentiment concerning the affairs of city, county, and state. There are men gathered about me here to-night, and the number is not few, who were graduated from the "case," and the large and varied information they have acquired was obtained during years of laborious service in the printing office, and to-day they occupy conspicuous positions in the journalism of the west. The great body of journalists are men of this class, and are conscientious in their business, never pandering to the low tastes and depraved passions of those who are constantly seeking after demoralizing sensations. That there are many cheap and flashy sensationalists connected with the press is too true, but these thrive most in the great cities, and are seldom found on the country newspaper. We must understand that to make a paper spicy, attractive, and interesting, it is not necessary either to deal in blackguardism, or to shock the moral sense of society. The cheapest brains that can be employed on a journal are the sensationalists. All the stock in trade they need are a lead-pencil, a vulgar propensity, and bad whisky enough to excite their imaginations. Wit is a capital thing and wholesome fun is a commodity which we cannot very well do without, and if our humorists have more readers than Emerson, it is possibly because they are teaching a better philosophy than many suppose. Let the boys and the girls laugh at their bright nonsense, and let the older ones smile at their happy sayings—for it will do them all good—but in publishing a country paper which necessarily deals largely in politics and in local matter, let it ever be the purpose of the members of this association to give their readers the fruits of that editorial conscience and painstaking editorial work, which shall claim the abiding respect of the public. Make your papers as sharp and as spicy as you please, but make them sharp and spicy through a lively spirit animated by a vigorous intellectuality, and a thorough understanding of the questions that come up for discussion. Don't think that crimes and other sensations should be the leading features of a newspaper, or that abusive personalities display keenness and make the paper readable. To some such things may be like a sweet morsel under the tongue, but to many, and to the great majority of homes, such things are not wanted.

Whittier, in his poem on "Our Country," read at the Woodstock Conn., celebration on last Fourth, rebuked sensational journalism in these forcible lines:

> Whate'er of folly, shame, or crime
> Within thy mighty bounds transpires,
> With speed defying space and time
> Comes to us on the accusing wires;
>
> While of thy wealth of noble deeds,
> Thy home of peace, thy votes unsold,
> The love that pleads for human needs,
> The wrong redressed, but half is told!

To a great extent the tendency of the press is, as Whittier says, to send broadcast over the land the misdeeds of men. When some unfortunate fails in business, or when domestic troubles and scandals cloud his home, all the world knows it the next day. We hear of it on the streets, in the stores, in our offices, and have it served at breakfast, dinner, and supper, until the public mind becomes surfeited with the stuff. But the good that men do is too often kept in the background; and the splendid deeds of women, their grand work in directing the affairs of the home, in making society stronger and better, and the countless acts of charity they do, are reckoned too tame for general reading. But for much of this kind of journalism the public is responsible. The more exciting, improbable, and dime novel-like the news, the greater is the number of dailies sold; and as the publishers want big circulations and large financial success, they give all prominence possible to that kind of literature, and pay the highest market price for it. But, my friends, in publishing a country newspaper, let editorials and news items that enlighten and cheer, predominate. Say all the pleasant things you can of everybody that is worthy, without seeming to be fulsome; but let your words be few about cranks and criminals who delight to see their names in the newspapers. In speaking kind words of people it is better to err on the side of charity than than to fill the paper with criminal slush, or to crush a human spirit, or to dishonor a home. If misfortune strikes a man down, although he may not be wholly innocent, do not kick him because he is down, but rather try to lift him up. If slander, a thing which never slumbers nor sleeps, should haunt a woman, remember the crowd that was dispersed by the chilling rebuke of the Master, "He that is without sin among you, let him cast the first stone." Give young men, who are industrious and worthy, and who are struggling for success in life, the influence of your positions, and when a kind word in print will give them encouragement and promote their welfare, cheerfully and generously help them.

Deal heavy blows in discussing important questions when heavy blows are just; and above all things have the courage of your sober conviction, but never be harsh in your judgment, nor unmanly toward your brethren, nor unfair toward the public, ever remembering that a true scholar and a real gentleman can no more be a blackguard in print than out of it. Let us do these things, and the press of Wisconsin shall be exalted in tone, strengthened in influence, and increased in power.

My brethren of the press, it is doubtless the experience of many of you, especially of those who have been in editorial work for years, that your writings become more justly and wisely tempered under the softening influence of time. When the years take us to the topmost hill in life, and we begin to tread the downward side—our faces toward the setting sun—we feel more than ever before the weight of the responsibility resting upon us. Serious reflection then admonishes us that we shall be in earnest, that conscience shall be our guide, and that honor should be the touchstone of all our motives, so that when the final shadow shall have crossed our path, and life has vanished, no influence shall be left behind us that is not just to ourselves and a benefit to mankind.

Demoruelle's Determination.

And it is a good quality for luck at lottery. At 10 o'clock a. m. on Wednesday, June 13th, the day after the 157th monthly and the June semi-annual grand drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, Mr. Jas. Demoruelle (of Demoruelle & Casachs, dealers in building materials) presented also at the company's office one-half of ticket No. 28,131, which had won the first capital prize of $150,000, and was promptly paid in full. He is 33 years of age, and has been in business since he was 22 years old. He has been industrious, and has been at the head of three different firms, succeeding in earning a comfortable income. He, his father and grandfather were all born in New Orleans, and is of the oldest Creole families, descendants of Du Vernay, one of the pioneers of the colony founded by Bienville. —New Orleans Picayune, June 17.

The Weather.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 56 degrees above zero. Clear with west wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 73 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy with a northwest wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 65 and 74 degrees above zero.

A Startling Discovery.

Physicians are often startled by remarkable discoveries. The fact that Dr. King's New discovery for Consumption and all Throat and Lung diseases is daily curing patients that they have given up to die, is startling them to realize their sense of duty, and examine into the merits of this wonderful discovery; resulting in hundreds of our best physicians using it in their practice. Trial bottles free at F. Sherer, & Co.'s drug store. Regular size $1.00.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

They Make a Raid on the Residents of the Third Ward.

Burglars made a raid on the residents of the third ward last evening, but did not succeed in capturing much "booty". Our people have been a little nervous for some days past, expecting visits from night prowlers, owing to the fact that a week or ten days ago they made a raid on several residents of the fourth ward, and succeeded so far in avoiding capture. Many of our people were prepared to receive the night callers in an appropriate manner, but it seems that the thieves took another portion of the city for their visit last night, or this morning, and again took the sleepers by surprise, getting away unmolested. On this occasion they visited, so far as heard from, the residences of Mr. C. B. Conrad, Mrs. C. H. Conrad, and Mr. L. Fifield, on Main street, the residence of Mr. Wm. Ruger, on Bluff street, Mr. H. D. McKinney, on Court street, and City Treasurer J. A. Blount, on Jackman street, all in the third ward. The burglars only succeeded in obtaining plunder from the residences of Mrs. C. H. Conrad, L. Fifield and J. A Blount.

At Mr. Blounts they gained entrance through the bay window, which had evidently been left unlocked; they entered the bed room of Mr. Blount's sister, and took a gold watch from the mantle. Miss Blount saw the burglar as he was passing out of the door, and screamed for her brother, but did not succeed in arousing him. The robber left the house the same way he entered. Mr. Blount prizes the watch highly, as it was a present to him from his father, given to him at the time he reached his 21st year. This is all the burglar took, or all that is missed. Mr. Blount says it was about four o'clock this morning, and he went immediately for the city marshal.

At the residence of Mr. Leavitt Fifield, on South Main street, they succeeded in obtaining the sum of sixteen dollars in money and a ticket for the excursion to Chicago, to-day, which were taken from the pockets of Mr. Fifield's pants. The ticket was found in the front yard this morning. They obtained an entrance to the house by raising one of the parlor windows. Mr. Fifield says he heard a noise about three o'clock, and shortly after another noise, as if of someone raising a window, but did not get up. His pants were on a chair at the head of his bed, with his vest, which were both left at the parlor window after being examined by the burglars. They did not succeed in getting his gold watch. The money and ticket seemed to satisfy them, as they did not make as big a haul as they might if they had had their eyes open, as two gold watches were near where the robbers were. Mr. Fifield seldom carries any money with him, and had it not been his intention of going to Chicago this morning they would have found his pockets empty of money.

At Mrs. C. H. Conrad's, on South Main street, they obtained an entrance by cutting the slats from the blinds and then removing the wire screens from the window, entering the dining room; from here they entered Mrs. Conrad's bed room, taking her dress and carrying it out on the veranda, going through her pocket book, in which they found fifteen dollars. Last evening Mrs. Conrad had nearly a hundred dollars in her pocket book, but had given her son a sum of money to visit Chicago with the excursion. This was all that they obtained.

Mr. C. B. Conrad's residence was also entered, but the burglars only succeeded in getting into the kitchen, finding the dining-room door bolted against them they retired without "booty."

They also succeeded in getting into the kitchen of Mr. Wm. Ruger's residence on Bluff street, but found no valuables that they wanted to carry off.

They also visited the residence of Mr. H. D. McKinney, on Court street, and after removing a pane of glass from a window, could not unbolt the door, and so gave up the job, or were frightened away.

They visited the home of Mrs. John Roethinger, at the foot of South Main street, and attempted to gain an entrance by opening the blinds and cutting the screen off one of the kitchen windows, when they were frightened away by Mrs. Roethinger inquiring "who is there?"

They attempted to enter the residence of Mr. Thomas Lappin, but were frightened away by something falling from the window which they were raising, which also awakened the sleeping inmates.

Mr. S. Holdredge's residence was visited, but the burglars were frightened away before they had gained an entrance.

Altogether they had quite a time unmolested, but did not succeed in gathering a great amount of plunder. Their work was all accomplished, undoubtedly, after three o'clock this morning, and many are of the opinion that the burglar or burglars reside here in this city, as there are no strange characters in the city upon whom the officers have suspicion. May be, sometime, they will be overtaken with a piece of lead, and in such a case, we shall be better able to tell whether they are of our own citizens.

Encampment.

Three weeks from to-day the first regiment, W. N. G. will go into camp in our city, and it is safe to say that camp week will be a succession of days of interest to the citizens of Rock county. It is the first time since the war that troops have been stationed here, and as the camp will in all its details be run strictly according to military law, it will afford one and all who were in the late "unpleasantness" an opportunity to recall those days of struggle, and to those who were not, to see how our soldiers lived and worked. The regiment numbers 626 men according to the last report of the adjutant general, and each company will be fairly represented in camp; they will be subsisted by the state, but receive no compensation for their time; the week will be devoted to instruction; it will be a week of schooling to the men, it will also be a week of pleasure and interest to every one who visits the grounds. The daily program of work will be about the same, with the exception of perhaps two days. Saturday the governor's day, when the grand parade through the city will take place, and the review by the governor and his staff at some prominent point in the city. Sunday the regiment will probably be mustered and divine services held on the ground. Each day the work of the camp will be about as follows:

Guard mount at 9 a. m., the balance of the forenoon to be devoted to regimental drill. In the afternoon, company drills and band concerts, to be followed by dress parade.

It is needless to say that thousands and thousands will be present. A dress parade each evening.

At Racine last year it was said the grounds were hardly large enough to hold the crowds that were present. We predict that during the week every person within thirty miles of the city that can possibly do so will visit the camp at least once, and many will be there every day. The regiment is composed of first class young men. Representative citizens of Racine, Monroe, Beloit, Whitewater, Delavan, and Janesville. The officers are all well known and will do all in their power to make the camp a success both as a school for the men and as a pleasure to all who may desire to visit them.

Briefiets.

—Look out for burglars.

—Mrs. B. F. Dunwiddie is in Darlington, visiting her parents.

—Miss Lou Neal, daughter of Captain John Neal, of the first ward, is visiting friends in Oshkosh.

—Congressman A. J. Holmes, of Boone, Iowa, is in the city, the guest of his sister, Mrs. J. F. Drake.

—The Quincy Whig says that McGinley has asked for his release from the Quincy base ball club.

—Mrs. J. B. Day, the elocutionist, went to Geneva Lake yesterday afternoon, to attend the meeting of the editorial association.

—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Main was gladdened last evening by the arrival of a handsome baby boy.

—The funeral of the late R. K. Lee, who died yesterday forenoon, will take place at the Norwegian church to-morrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

—Mr. Henry Grove, and daughter Lizzie, have gone to Huron, Dakota, on a visit to Mr. Groves' son, George T. Grove, who is in business in that place.

—Miss Mattie McCullagh, and Miss Nellie Connell went to Chicago on the noon train, to purchase new goods, the latest and best novelties in that market.

—About one hundred and fifty people went to Chicago this morning on the excursion. Some of the excursionists will return home this evening, while many will remain a day or two in the great city.

—Ald. C. A. Potter started for the west to-day. He will stop at Huron, Dakota, to visit his daughter, Mrs. W. P. Bowen, and then visit the Yellowstone country. He will be absent three or four weeks.

—Mr. R. W. King, who has been absent on a business trip to Clark, Dakota, for the past three or four weeks, returned home last evening. Mr. King reports all growing crops as looking splendid in the west, and all the people, as well as himself, as feeling happy.

—Information is wanted of George Miller, a German, who went from Wisconsin to Kansas about eleven years ago and soon after disappeared. There is considerable money and property awaiting his discovery. Any information of his whereabouts can be addressed to G. A. Colton, Paola, Kansas.

—In the case of the state against Andrew Weber, which was on trial in the municipal court, charged with stealing a sheep from James Colwell, the defendant was found not guilty, and discharged. The case of the state against Helm was discontinued, on motion of the district attorney.

—About twenty couples from the city, went to Otter Creek, in the town of Lima, last evening, to attend the dedication of the large new barn of Mr. T. H. Austin. There was a large attendance of the friends of Mr. Austin. Tuckwood's full band furnished the music for the dance, and all enjoyed a pleasant evening.

—Mr. A. E. Morse, who has been connected with a bank at Montello, for some years, arrived in the city this morning, and was warmly welcomed by his many friends. Mr. Morse has closed his business in Montello, and on the first of August will commence business in Stevens Point, as cashier of the First National bank, of that city. Mr. Morse will visit relatives and friends in Johnstown before returning to Stevens Point.

—Major Coulter, of Washington, D. C., who has been visiting in this city for some weeks, the guest of Mrs. M. D. McHenry, will depart for his home to-morrow, well pleased with his visit to the Bower city, and the many new acquaintances he has made here. We should be pleased to again greet the major in our city, as he is a whole souled, social gentleman.

—The Bower City band has been engaged for a series of ten open air concerts to be given on Wednesday evenings, commencing this evening, on the corn exchange square. The band is one of the best in the state, and our citizens will have the pleasure of listening to some choice music well rendered.

—It is a fact that Hon. Clinton Babbitt, secretary of the state agricultural society, has written to Gov. Ben. Butler, asking him to deliver an address on the occasion of the opening of the state fair in this city, in September next. It is very likely that Gov. Butler will accept the invitation. Let us hope so, at any rate—Madison Democrat.

—The wife of Dr. H. W. Spalding, who was the first rector of Christ church, in this city, but who now resides in Jersey City, died on Friday last. The remains were taken to Madison, this state, where the funeral was held in Grace church this afternoon. The remains were interred in Forest Hill cemetery, where several of her children already are at rest.

—On Monday, July 23d, the Janesville Concordia society will give a picnic party in Patten's Grove. The Bower City band has been engaged to furnish music, and will escort the society to the grounds. A fine matched floor will be laid and good dancing music provided, that all who may desire can "trip the light fantastic toe." The society invite their friends to join them, and make this a grand gala day. Plenty of wholesome refreshments will be furnished.

—The City of Newport, Captain Buchholz, took a party of about twenty ladies and gentlemen up the river last evening, landing at Pope's springs, where refreshments were served, and then steamed several miles further up the river, taking in the beautiful scenery of the Rock. The party was inaugurated for the entertainment of Major Coulter, of Washington, who is visiting the city, the guest of Mrs. M. D. McHenry. The party enjoyed the excursion.

—The funeral of the late James O'Hara took place at ten o'clock this forenoon in St. Mary's church, the pastor, Rev. Father Roche, officiating at the requiem high mass, and delivered a sermon, which is spoken of as being very impressive. The remains were enclosed in an elegant casket, and there was a display of beautiful flowers,—tributes from sympathetic friends. The funeral procession was an unusually large one, and the remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Patrick Kavanagh, Thomas Cantillon, William Cantillon, John Delaney, John Laskowski, and Henry Brazzel.
